Microsoft may have some undesired business practices but they have contributed much the advancement of PC software. Microsoft pulled off what everyone really wanted a software platform that pulled software use together. Now that they have accomplished this other vendors cry foul. I don't like or want government interference with this practice of competition. In my opinion it is not governments place to interfere with business. This trial undermines the markets free choice & good old American competitive drive to become the biggest & best that you can achieve.
